

Successful Community Living

Getting Along with your College Area Neighbors

Dear SDSU Student,

As an institution, San Diego State University is committed to being a good neighbor to the College Area community, and we'd like to enlist your cooperation in this important effort. As a service to students living in neighborhoods near SDSU, we are providing this brochure that explains some of the state and local codes that affect residents of single-family homes and provides suggestions for maintaining positive neighbor relations. By showing respect for the community in which you live, your conduct will be a positive reflection of SDSU. We hope you will find this information valuable, that you will share it with your fellow tenants and guests, and that you will keep it handy for future reference. Thank you in advance for doing your part to help enhance the quality of life in the College Area.

Sincerely,

Dr. James R. Kitchen

Dear SDSU Student,

As you know, SDSU is surrounded by neighborhoods and a community where people live and work. As responsible members of the local community known as the College Area, we need your help to create a positive working relationship with our neighbors. We all desire and have a right to live and work in surroundings where mutual respect, civility, healthy life styles and social interactions can thrive in ways that contribute to—rather than detract from—our quality of life.

With that in mind, I encourage you to read the important material in this brochure which will inform you of how you can help contribute to harmonious relationships with your neighbors and the surrounding community. With our collective efforts, we can make this community the very best it can possibly be.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Chris Manigault".

Chris Manigault

Associated Students President

Dear College Area Resident,

Being adjacent to a major university adds to the vibrancy of the College Area, but it can also present significant challenges. Families and retired, long-term homeowners may share common fences with houses occupied by groups of youthful, transient renters— sometimes resulting in a clash of lifestyles. Potential conflicts, however, can be avoided if everyone has an understanding of their legal and civic responsibilities as community residents and the resources that are available to resolve community issues. In addition to educating yourself on these matters by reading this brochure, communication and neighborly consideration are the keys to making the College Area a pleasant place to live for all.

Sincerely,
